CAPT. JACQUES MEETS DEATH NEAR LONDON

Resided at Little Boar's Head and Was Well Known in This City and Vicinity

Captain William H. Jacques for many years a resident at Little Boar's Head and well known in this city, has been killed in a railroad accident according to a London dispatch. Captain Jacques was a graduate of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and afterwards was with the Bethlehem Steel Company and president of the Holland Submarine Company. Captain Jacques recently took a house on High Barnet, a London suburb. Last Thursday he went to London on a business trip and at night took a train for home. His body was found on the track on Friday morning. It is supposed Captain Jacques stepped from the right side of the car, according to the American custom and was struck by a train on the other track.

Captain Jacques was prominent in the organization of the New Jersey naval militia.

Captain Jacques was in his 49th year and was widely known here. He was born in Philadelphia and received his early education in the public schools of Newark, N. J. He was sent to the naval academy from that city and was graduated in 1867. Four years later he was promoted to lieutenant, and in 1887 resigned from the service to found the heavy gun manufacturing department of the Bethlehem Steel Company. Here he worked for eight years and became independently wealthy.

Captain Jacques was a former assistant in the U. S. Coast and Geodetic survey; a former secretary of the Gun Foundry Board, and had also served in the same capacity with the United States committee.

For many years Captain Jacques was closely identified with the development of armor plate and heavy guns, and introduced the fluid compression and hydraulic forging process. President Arthur sent him abroad as secretary of the commission that reported on gun and armor plants. The Emperor of Japan gave him the Order of the Rising Sun in 1894 for the assistance given that country in the manufacture of war material.

Captain Jacques was a member of the Lotos, Metropolitan, and Army and Navy clubs of Washington, of the Loyal Legion and of the Essex club of Newark.

PAYS $1,000 MORE ON CHURCH DEBT

Rev. D. Alex. Sullivan Makes Pleasing Announcement to Parishioners.

Rev. D. Alex. Sullivan rector of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in his announcements to the congregation at the several services on Sunday forenoon gave information to the effect that the church debt had been further reduced to the amount of $1,000, making a total of $5,000 within a year. This recent payment leaves a debt of $5,500 which the pastor and parishioners expect to wipe out in the same period of time. This financial statement is most gratifying to the church members and will elicit any record of debt reduction made in the history of the Portsmouth parish in such a short space of time.

LOOKING FOR NEW NAVY YARDS

Commission Off to the Pacific Coast Following Act of Congress.

While the former Secretary of the Navy Meyer labored night and day for the closing of several navy yards, the present administration sees the need of more naval stations and has sent a special commission of navy officers, headed by Rear Admiral J. M. Helm, to the Pacific coast for that purpose.

The members of the commission went by way of Charleston, Pensacola and New Orleans, where facilities were investigated, and arrived in Southern California on Nov. 21.

After looking over proposed sites on the Pacific Coast the commission will go to the Caribbean Sea, where every available location for navy bases will be considered. Congress, in authorizing the appointment of the commission, directed that its primary purpose be to prepare a report to be submitted at the next session as to the "necessity, desirability and advisability of establishing an additional navy yard or naval station on the Pacific Coast."

If the commission recommends such a site and estimate the cost of its establishment and maintenance. Study of the Atlantic Coast south of Hatteras, the coast of the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea also was directed "for the proper naval defense for that portion of the country." In addition the commission is to review the question of submarine and aviation bases.

FORMER PORTSMOUTH PASTOR TO RETIRE FROM SERVICE

Rev. Dr. DeNormandie Called "One of the Few Preachers of Today" Will Devote Life to Writing

The Rev. Dr. James DeNormandie, who was the pastor of the South Parish Church in this city for twenty-one years, and who is at present the pastor of the First Unitarian Church in Roxbury, Mass., has announced that he will leave the service of the church as a preacher and will devote the remainder of his life to the completion of two or three books on which he has been working for some time. Dr. DeNormandie read his resignation last Sunday to take effect on January 1, and he retires as an active preacher after a service of fifty-four years. During that time he has filled the pulpit of but the two churches; twenty-one years in this city, and thirty-three years in his present pastorate. His many friends in this city will learn of his intention with regret, and he is still held by many as a Portsmouth man, even after his absence of more than thirty years. His first work in the church was done here, having taken charge of the South Parish immediately after his ordination in 1852.

Dr. DeNormandie is 59 years old and was born in Bristol, Penn. He attended Antioch College, when it was directed by the famous Horace Mann, Washington University, and finally Harvard Divinity School, where he graduated in 1852 to be at once ordained. He at once took charge of the Portsmouth Church, remaining there till called to his present church in 1882. In 1894 Harvard conferred on him the special degree of S.D.T.

The Roxbury Church, which was declining in membership and influence when he took it, doubled its membership in a short time under his pastorate and its prosperity has gone on increasing year after year. Among the members today are Judge Hayden and Augustus Bacon.

Charles T. Gallagher of Boston, an admirer of Dr. DeNormandie, said Saturday: "Unless it be Rev. George A. Gordon, I believe there is no preacher in Boston the equal of Dr. DeNormandie intellectually. He would take a text from the Bible and preach a purely religious type of sermon, historical, literary or narrative, but always of the reverential type, like James Freeman Clarke. We have few great preachers left, but Dr. DeNormandie is one of them."

Dr. DeNormandie was a trustee of the Boston Public Library 13 years, has been president of the trustees of Roxbury Latin School for years, belongs to the Massachusetts Historical Society and to several charitable and philanthropic organizations.

NEW AUSTRIAN RULER WILL CALL PARLIAMENT

Vienna, Nov. 26.—An interesting sidelight on Kaiser Charles's decidedly modern character is afforded by an authentic anecdote going the rounds of diplomatic circles. On his receiving Hungarian war correspondents at his east front headquarters, one of them chanced to praise his military virtues, whereupon he replied:

"I have a deep and abiding respect for the press and my appreciation of its brave work is great. I know how to value the service which you are rendering under arduous conditions. In these extraordinary times it is not meet, however, that you should apply a double standard of measurement and write more about me than about other generals crowned with merited honors and services."

Greeted by Populace

For the first time since Francis Joseph's death Kaiser Charles today left Schoenbrunn palace and motored through Vienna, being greeted everywhere by the populace. On this occasion he for the first time reviewed the guard of Schoenbrunn palace. Of utmost inner political interest is the fact that Kaiser Charles has taken the necessary steps to call together both houses of the Reichsrath in the immediate future, against which step the late murdered premier, Count Stoeckl had set himself firmly.

The death of the old Emperor swept away all political controversies and arguments for and against summing Parliament during the war. It is now inherently necessary, since the new Kaiser on ascending the throne, is required shortly thereafter to appear before the Reichsrath and swear to uphold the constitution.

The present premier, Dr. von Koerber, after a conference with the Emperor, was able to state yesterday that in the matter of taking his oath of office Kaiser Charles stands squarely on constitutional ground emphasizing further that a new era had begun here, and that the government must adapt itself to the conditions of the times.

Political experts read out of this that the meeting of Parliament will be no perfunctory matter, but that it will mark the resumption of parliamentary life and government in the dual monarchy, the prospect of which is hailed with genuine joy and satisfaction here. One has the feeling that the old order has passed forever, that the rule of the universally beloved paternal sovereign is to be followed by that of an up-to-date constitutional monarch, a change that should not fail to help mould and shape the fast moving events of world history.

Additional Details

From a well informed personage at court was gleaned the following additional details regarding the new Kaiser.

"Though the Saxon blood of his mother has given the stamp to his outer appearance, Charles I's character is cut along Hapsburg lines. His fundamental characteristics are justice and devotion to duty. His working day is plotted out to the minute, and finds him always on the job. He has a whole some, unspotted, warm personality, and a humane, sympathetic nature, his earnestness being tempered by youthful energy."

The new Emperor has an excellent memory and a keen, observing eye, and makes a practice of seeing and hearing for himself and forming his own judgments, expressing his opinions with clarity and decision and somewhat tenaciously. He has a keen sense for facts, and wants to know and fully understand everything in this respect resembling Kaiser Wilhelm.

"In manner he is of great modesty and courtesy and entirely free from affectation and pose. There is something decidedly chivalrous about his young, supple, elegant figure in general uniform, his lively blue eyes and unaffected gestures. Above all, Kaiser Charles is perfectly natural. He is always himself. As a result, he and the Empress Zita, even amid court ceremonial, never make a cut-and-dried conventional impression. Their future popularity is assured."

LAY BETWEEN TRACKS

Haverhill, Nov. 25.—Elwin W. Boynton, aged 64, an operative in the Groveland Mills, died tonight in the State Hospital here as a result of having been run over by a Bay State Street Railway car three hours earlier, in South Groveland, where he lived.

The car had reached a section where the track is being repaired, when James McCarthy, the motorman, suddenly saw Boynton lying between the tracks about six feet ahead. McCarthy was unable to stop his car. All the front wheels had run over the legs of this prostrate man. It was necessary to jack the car up to release him. It is not known how he came to be in such a situation.

Boynton is survived by a wife and several children.

HEARD AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL

(Special Correspondence)

ANOTHER CHANGE COMING.—

There is quite a general feeling among men in public life that President Wilson will find occasion within the next few months to reverse his attitude on the tariff question and come out for an adequate protective tariff. It is expected that he will base his change of attitude upon the assertion that the war has brought about unusual conditions which require the adoption of policies which he has condemned in the past. The appointment of a tariff commission will make it easy for him to do this. It is probable that the tariff commission will submit some sort of report showing the danger of foreign competition at the close of war, and, using this as a basis, President Wilson and his party will change their attitude and enact a tariff law that will provide all the protection desired by the South and as much of the protection desired by the North as Democrats deem necessary in order to strengthen their position before the country for the Congressional campaign of 1918.

DEMOCRATIC ADVANTAGE.—Analysis of the vote by which President Wilson has been re-elected discloses some interesting facts. Out of the 531 presidential electors, 126 are elected from the Southern states which invariably go Democratic regardless of who the candidates are or what platforms they stand on. There are, therefore, 405 electors from states where there is a real expression upon the issues involved in the campaign. Out of those 405, Mr. Hughes has 235, while Mr. Wilson has only 150. In the states where there was a real political contest, President Wilson received only 25 per cent of their electoral vote.

INEQUALITY OF REPRESENTATION.—Another interesting disclosure is that the Southern states have far larger representation in the electoral college in proportion to the number of votes cast than have the Northern states. Mississippi, for example, has an elector for every 6,131 votes cast, while Indiana has one elector for about 39,000 votes cast. This inequality in electoral power is naturally arousing considerable complaint in the states not given relatively the strength exercised by the South.

A SWELLING DEFICIT.—For a considerable time prior to election the deficit in the federal treasury had been increasing at the rate of about $1,000,000 a day. The Republican press gave this considerable publicity with the result that by some means the increase was checked for a week or two before election day. With the election over, however, the deficit began piling up again. In the two days between Nov. 9 and Nov. 11 the deficit increased from $59,400,000 to $87,720,000, or more than $1,000,000. This change recalls the fact that just before the close of the fiscal year June 30th last, the Treasury Department was able to bring in unusually large receipts which made a good showing for the administration at the close of the fiscal year.

CAMPAIGN CANARD EXPOSED.—

Near the close of the recent campaign the Department of Justice gave out statements calculated to create the impression the Republicans were shipping Southern colored voters North and colonizing them. Since election the fact has been made public that within the past year 120,000 negro laborers have moved from the South and that "demand for men in munition plants, in mines, on railroads, and in construction, is largely at the bottom of the migration." Thus the political play loses its force.

WRAPPING TWINE FROM PAPER

Washington, Nov. 26.—That wrapping twines which give thorough satisfaction can be made from paper has been demonstrated by experiments made by the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin. Several hundred packages, each containing a medium-sized book, were wrapped and fastened with the lightest-weight paper twine and were mailed to various points throughout the United States. Reports show that "practically every package was received in good order; and that in no case was there any damage which could be charged as a fault of the twine."

of the twine.

In making twine the paper is cut into narrow strips which are then twisted tightly to form a cord. The strength of the twine depends upon the character of the paper used and the process of treatment. It is well adapted to a number of purposes, but the foresters say that as yet no satisfactory means has been found for protecting paper twine from the action of water and it should not be used where it will be exposed to moisture.

"CORNER" ON EGGS IS SMASHED BY RAIDERS

CHICAGO HEALTH OFFICIALS SEIZE SEVERAL MILLIONS FROM WAREHOUSES—QUALITY IS SUSPECTED.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—In an attempt to smash an alleged "corner" in egg, city health officials yesterday raided a warehouse and seized several millions of eggs said to have been stored by James E. Wetzel, alleged "Egg King." Dr. John Dill Robertson, commissioner of health, who led the raid, said he was acting on an ordinance authorizing him to hold for investigation eggs the quality of which is suspected. Dr. Robertson said he would hold all suspicious eggs for further inspection and would destroy all bad eggs. He was asked what effect such procedure would have on the supply and prices.

"I don't know," he replied, "but I do know that if we have to pay high prices for storage eggs we are going to get good eggs."

Wetzel, according to officials, has controlled 72,000,000 eggs.

Lincoln's Words at Gettysburg.

The iconoclast is always at work. His business is to tear down the things of the past and to show that many cherished beliefs have no foundation in fact. One after another he removes, or attempts to remove, that which has been for generations accepted as truth. He rewrites history in a way to show that the original writers did not know their business, and the persistence with which he pursues his work indicates that he thoroughly enjoys it.

Just now one of these delvers into the past comes to the front with the discovery that the expression, "Government of the people, by the people and for the people," was not original with Lincoln. This discovery is said to have been made by a scholar of extensive research among literary monuments, who says the words were used in Wycliffe's translation of the Bible published about the year 1380. "The Bible," it was said in the preface, "is for the government of the people, by the people and for the people."

This may be true, and Lincoln may have been aware of the fact, but the chances are against it. Abraham Lincoln did not have to go to ancient history to find suitable words for the expression of his thoughts, and there is no reason to believe he did so on the occasion of his immortal Gettysburg speech, in which he used the expression, "Government of the people, by the people and for the people."

The question is not one of large consequence. It will have to be admitted that if Lincoln dug up these words out of very ancient history he brought them forward at a most opportune time and made most excellent use of them. The world long ago accepted them as his and there is no probability that its view will be changed by the claim referred to.

It is well that history should be carefully studied and that errors should be rectified, but the tendency to find so much in history that isn't so is too pronounced on the part of certain individuals, with the result that history is being constantly upset, so far as the fruits of their delvings are accepted.

This country and world will continue to believe that the expression, "Government of the people, by the people and for the people," was original with the great emancipator on the occasion of his immortal speech at Gettysburg. If the iconoclasts know better they will not be denied the satisfaction that comes from their greater knowledge.

The socialists want public markets established where food can be obtained at cost. There was a time when there was a loud cry for the public market, which was to cut out the middleman and bring down the cost of living; and the parcel post was also hailed as the handsman of unduly high prices for food stuffs. But not so much is being heard about these things of late. Perhaps people are too busy swearing about the conditions to have time to talk about them.

The killing of four persons in an automobile race in California the other day calls out further protests against this form of sport. But far more people are killed on the highways than on the race course, and if life is to be effectively safeguarded the public should give its first attention to the roads and the reckless individuals who scatter danger and death wherever they go.

The constitutionality of the Adamson law, creating an eight-hour day for railroad trainmen, is the great question just now. It can be settled only by the supreme court, and to that august body it is being hurried with all possible speed. In the meantime it is reassuring to be told by the railroad men that they are not again contemplating a strike.

Wages are being voluntarily increased by many employers, showing that they are alive to the situation which is so burdensome to those who work for a living in their establishments. It is better that increases should come in this way rather than at the end of wrangles and strikes, entailing heavy losses upon both sides.

The exceptionally long reign of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary came to an end at a time and under circumstances which should go as far as anything possibly can toward reconciling a man to death.

New York reports a shortage of street cleaners, but the curbs are as thickly populated as ever.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Credibility of Newspapers
(From the Manchester Mirror)

A man who lives in one of the principal centers of the recent influenza epidemic was talking the other day about the newspaper reports of that disease. He claimed they were greatly exaggerated, and that even in places like New York, where it raged the fiercest, there wasn't any special epidemic. He thought the thing was largely newspaper imagination.

There used to be a type of people who would believe anything whatever that they saw printed in a newspaper. One laughs at such simplicity now. The other day people seem to have gone to the other extreme. There is talk of a certain appearance of smartness in that disease. He claimed they were greatly exaggerated, and that even in places like New York, where it raged the fiercest, there wasn't any special epidemic. He thought the thing was largely newspaper imagination.

In a case like the epidemic referred to, such a claim appears very ridiculous. News of such diseases is always taken from board of health reports. The yellow newspaper in the United States would not dare falsify them.

There are certain journals, which in some mysterious way get a large and widespread circulation, that do take a good deal of news. Or rather they accept rumor as fact without careful investigation. Their constituency is so large that they think they can offend and defy small groups of readers without incurring their total circulation.

But the home newspaper, published in a smaller city or town, dependent on that town for its support, is a different proposition. The editor knows that if he prints an untrue story there is the device to pay next day. The least he can do is to print a full retraction. This is humiliating, but rather than admitting indifference to truth. The result is that newspaper work, out side some of the big metropolitan offices, represents the most sincere and earnest effort to learn and print the truth.

The Usual Thing in Maine

(From the Boston Traveler)
Atty. Gen. Fanning of Maine, who is a Democrat and one of the most brilliant men of his party in New England, is having a little fun with the Governor-elect, who is a Republican, and who before election promised to enforce prohibition in that state.

Other Republican Governors, and at least one Democratic Governor, have promised to do the same thing, but they have never done it, and already, in advance of inauguration, it is being pointed out, in the Governor-elect's behalf, that he cannot keep his promise unless he receives additional power. The legislature will hardly give him the power to remove sheriffs and county attorneys, who are chosen by the people, and already, before his term of office begins, Mr. Milliken has at hand a plausible reason why prohibition will continue to be a farce in certain towns and cities of Maine.

The Attorney-general says that the people of Maine are beginning to tire of pretence. Perhaps they are, but the signs are not visible at this distance. The courts and the local officers, working together, can enforce the law, as Mr. Fanning says, but certain Maine courts have been no more anxious to enforce the law than the local officers themselves in wide-open cities. When public sentiment in Maine demands genuine prohibition, instead of farce, prohibition, public sentiment will obtain it, in spite of courts that are operated as if they were allies of the chronic law-breakers.

"Wage-earners in Mexico will be thoroughly organized." The labor party in Mexico is a newly discovered factor.

The New England Boiled Dinner

(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger)
Nothing is too sacred for the mocker at tradition to assault. Thus someone objects in the columns of the New York Sun to the New England boiled dinner. The health commissioner of Chicago, who has undertaken to demonstrate the possibility of maintaining health and vigor on meals that cost but forty cents a day, wisely suggests that boiled dinners and mush and milk would exercise a restraining influence in an era of extravagance. Such fare, it must be confessed, would not be inviting as a steady diet. But it does not follow that the New England boiled dinner is "one of the most inextinguishable gastronomic horrors of the world." An indigestible, heartless outgrowth of increasing Puritanism that has been responsible for generations past for certain marked Yankee traits that have sprung from the perniciously low cost of dyspepsia. This is a scathing indictment. But its force is diminished by the writer's characterization of the article he condemns as composed of "balled beef, potatoes and cabbage." Such a dish is to be eaten in various parts of the country, even in New England; but it is not a New England boiled dinner. In that the beef is corned, and it is boiled with potatoes, cabbage, carrots, beets and turnips—corned beef paraffins, in fact.

The alleged "New England dinner" of the restaurants is quite another matter. It seems to be this which has won the condemnation of the critic of gastronomy, and not unjustly. Indeed, no will have the sympathy of every true son of New England in his denunciation of the "heartless outgrowth" of a high culinary ideal. But the real New England dinner so far from being a product of Puritanism, is a reaction from it. Imperfectly, dumbly, it were it symbolized the soul struggling to be free from fried salt pork, doughnuts and mince pie. Like that other New England dish, Cape Cod turkey, it marks the beginning of gastronomic enfranchisement. It is not to be compared with the products of the culinary art which have made Pennsylvania famous; but in its way it is not to be despised. The Chicago experimenters are not likely to get dyspepsia if they eat the real thing.

The Dignity of the Wash Tub

CURRENT OPINION

The thought of the world is turning more and more definitely to America as the hope of the world, and this may be due in no small degree to the propaganda carried on by the League to Enforce Peace. The League offers a definite program which does not go into details, but is confined to these fundamental propositions:

A league of nations to establish an international court to try causes of disputes between nations, a council of conciliation to compose differences that cannot properly be brought before the court, conferences to formulate and codify rules of international law and the concerted use of economic pressure and military force by all the signatory power against any member nation that begins war or even threatens to begin war upon another member of the League without first submitting its grievance to court or council and awaiting a decision.

One may reasonably question whether the United States by uniting with the other great powers to prevent the recurrence of a future world war may not risk less in assuming the obligations of a member of the League than by refusing to become such a member in view of her world wide interest.

But even if the risk of war to the United States would be greater by entering the League than by staying out of it, does not the United States have a duty as a member of the family of nations to do its part and run its necessary risk to make less probable the coming of such another war and such another disaster to the human race?—By Former President William H. Taft.

LATEST MOVE IN CARPENTER CASE MADE BY WIFE

That hanging out linen in a back yard was not sufficient cause for an injunction against the washing of clothes in the exclusive section of Ardmore.

The defendant in the case was Miss Georgina P. Culbert, who foresaw the typewriter for the tub and built up a business which, she testified, yielded her $60 a week. She took over the "family washing" her mother had done and obtained trade from wealthy residents of Lower Merion township.

The complainant was Miss Marie Lussen, who owns a home worth $20,000 adjoining the house in which Miss Culbert operates her laundry. Sentiment of the neighborhood was with Miss Lussen, and the persons she had called as witnesses all testified that the hanging-out of the wash would destroy the beauty of her section.

Witnesses admitted that no noises or objectionable odors emanated from the house which serves Miss Culbert as a laundry.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE NOTES

In West Virginia where Prohibition won by a two to one vote, two years ago, anti-suffrage won by a two to one vote on November 7. West Virginia even outdid Massachusetts in the relative size of its vote against suffrage. The following telegram from Charleston, West Virginia, was received at Massachusetts Anti-Suffrage headquarters on November 8: "Returns to date indicate wonderful victory for the anti-suffrage cause. These Virginians, true to their earlier conceptions, have buried this movement too deep to conceive of a resurrection in the future."

The anti-suffragists throughout the country are very grateful to the suffragists who campaigned in South Dakota for their splendid assistance in defeating woman suffrage for the sixth time in that state.

"Throughout the country the press stated that woman suffrage had won in South Dakota. Many newspapers have never seen fit to correct this error."

Deadwood, one of the wettest towns in South Dakota, was strong for suffrage. The strength of the anti, like that of the prohibitionists, came from the rural districts. The latest figures gave the anti a majority of 5,495.

ARMY ENGINEER WAS POPULAR IN NEW ENGLAND

Col. William E. Craighill
Well Known in This City,
Dies in Washington.

Col. William E. Craighill of the engineer corps of the United States army, well known in this city, died in Washington on Sunday. Col. Craighill had been stationed in Boston for the past three years and previously had been in Portland, Me.

During the Boxer campaign in China he was transferred at his own request into the infantry. He served throughout the campaign and later had active service in the Philippines. He had been in Washington nearly three months.

Col. Craighill was a native of Baltimore, where he was born Dec. 20, 1863. He was appointed to the Military Academy in 1885 and was graduated four years later high in his class. He was appointed 2d lieutenant of engineers and was assigned to Co. A, Battalion of Engineers, stationed at Willer's Point. He was regarded as one of the ablest men in his line in the Army and served the government as engineer in charge of many important pieces of work. He was assigned to Boston about three years ago and was in charge of the rivers and harbors improvements in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Col. Craighill was very popular with New Englanders and was always willing to do everything possible for the betterment of the harbors and rivers in his territory. Business men and Boards of Trade sought his advice and counsel on matters coming within his jurisdiction, and he was much in demand at dinners and luncheons of business men interested in the improvement and development of New England waterways.

He was the son of Col. William P. Craighill, who held the same rank in the same branch of the Army service. His father was a Virginian, and his son possessed many of the traits of the Southern gentleman of the old school. The elder Craighill remained faithful to the Union on the breaking out of the war and was promoted several times during the Civil War for meritorious services in battle, and particularly in the fighting at Cumberland under Gen. Morgan.

New York, Nov. 27.—Preliminary plans for the "Rough Riders" of Spanish war fame to build and endow a "commons hall" at Norwich university, Northfield, Vt., were announced here last night. The university, a military school founded in 1819, which was the Alma Mater of Admiral Dewey, Gideon Welles, secretary of the navy under President Lincoln, 13 governors of different states, 52 generals in the regular army, six rear admirals, two cabinet officers and three ministers of foreign countries, recently was adopted by the Rough Riders.

At the outbreak of the Spanish war, it is said, 50 per cent of the graduates and former cadets of Norwich volunteered for service.

Major General Leonard Wood, who first commanded the Rough Riders, and Theodore Roosevelt, who led them at San Juan, Cuba, have written letters to a committee commending the plan. The proposed new building will cost $150,000 and will include a gymnasium, dining room, faculty quarters and riding hall stables.

MANY ATTEND
FUNERAL OF
MISS FARMER*Last Bahai Rites Given and
Co-Workers Pay Tribute to Green Acre Founder.

On Sunday afternoon in the little family cemetery at Elliot, surrounded by a host of friends from all parts of New England, and many of her townspeople, the remains of Miss Sarah Jane Farmer, the founder of the Green Acre Conference, were laid at rest, the Bahai services being conducted at the Farmer homestead by Alfred E. Lunt of Boston, president of the Green Acre Fellowship. Mr. Lunt was assisted by Harlan P. Ober of Cambridge, William H. Randall of Boston, and Mrs. Kate Ives of Elliot, the latter having been one of Miss Farmer's co-workers at Green Acre for a long term of years. The love in which she was held by her many friends was feelingly expressed by those conducting the services and Mrs. Ives paid a glowing tribute to the memory of the noted woman.

She said: "Miss Farmer's mission in life was to make others happy. It was her great universal love that made her so dear to others. Everybody that knew Miss Farmer, loved her." She quoted Abdul Bahai as saying "Miss Farmer's love would put new life into stone."

Mrs. Ives spoke of the joy and happiness Miss Farmer had expressed in having been able to end her days in her own home which she had loved so dearly. The knowledge that she was surrounded by the friends of her lifetime and her relatives made the coming of the darkness one of great peace.

The influence of Miss Farmer, and the fame of her and her work was far reaching. This was pointed out by Mr. Lunt in his remarks at the services who said that Miss Farmer was a noble woman who was known all over the world. He said in part: "In far Asia Miss Farmer's name is spoken with the utmost reverence. Her influence and memory will always dwell in our hearts."

The placing of a ring on her finger by Mr. Randall brought the impressive services to a close. Mr. Randall read from one of the Bahai works, "It came from God and return to Him, separated from all else but Him; taking hold of His name, the merciful, the element."

The body of Miss Farmer rested in a steel-grhy broadcloth covered casket and this was banked high with floral tributes, many having been sent from places far removed from Green Acre. The march to the cemetery was made by the mourners on foot, the little burying ground being but a short distance from the home. George E. Hammond, Edward Bartlett, William Hobbs, Ex-Sheriff George O. Athorne, Wallace Dixon and Charles E. Foye, acted as pall bearers. No services were held at the grave but after interment the members of the Fellowship returned to the home and sang a number of the favorite selections of Miss Farmer.

The following poem written in 1893 by Anne B. Wheeler dedicated to Miss Farmer was read by Mr. Ober:

A PORTRAIT

(For the Transcript)
Just to gaze upon her face
Is to know what life might mean:
Naught but gentleness and peace
Ever mirrored there is seen—
Peace and sweet tranquillity.
All her words with love are fraught,
All her deeds with kindness wrought;
All who know her must be taught
Love for all humanity.

For her heart is full of love
For the humblest ones of earth,
And her smile for them is sweet
As for those of noble birth.
Gracious, tender, womanly,
From her brow so smooth and white
Tresses colored from the night,
Frame brown eyes of tender light,
Eyes that speak sincerely,

Always robed in softest gray,
Snowy kerchief at her throat,
Mingling one of some fair saint
Of some period remote,
In her garb of chastity,
And the influence she wielded
As a power which each one feels
A mighty force which soothes and heals,
Scattering all impurity.

Men of every tongue and clime
Vie to honor her and praise,
Both the humble and the high
In her sight her best essays,
Poet and philosopher,
Every act of her refined,
Straightens out the crooked lines
In a way no one defines—
This something of divinity.

I am glad that I have known
Such a rare and gracious soul,
And the beauty of her life
Bears a message to my own,
Teaching me humility.
May I make her motto mine:
"Peace" and harmony divine,
Like a beacon that will shine,
Lighting to eternity.
(1898) Anne B. Wheeler.

At the home of the bride's parents at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon occurred the marriage of Miss Edith Mary Seaward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Seaward of this place and William Henry Hackney of Kittery, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hackney of that town. The marriage occurred in the living room and the bridal couple stood under an arch of yellow and white. In the same place occurred the marriage of the bride's parents 23 years ago. The bride wore a becoming gown of brown messaline and pink chiffon. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The couple were unattended. Rev. Edward Cummings, pastor of the Free Baptist church performed the nuptial rites the single ring service being used. Twenty-five relatives of the contracting parties were present. After the wedding ceremony the newly wedded couple held an informal reception and they received numerous good wishes for their future happiness. A wedding lunch was served in the dining room, the menu including lobster salad, hot rolls, assorted cake, harlequin ice cream and fruit punch. A richly decorated bride's cake ornamented a small table and this was cut by the bride and distributed to her guests. Mr. and Mrs. Hackney left for Portsmouth in an automobile where they took the 5.36 train for Concord and Manchester for a short wedding trip. At its conclusion they will take up housekeeping in a tenement in the house of the bride's parents at Kittery Point. The going-away gown of the bride was brown with brown velvet coat, and hat of gold lace trimmed with brown velvet and fur. As she came down the stairs she threw her bouquet which was caught by Miss Alice M. Patch. Both bride and groom are well known and their many friends extend to them best wishes for their future happiness. A choice assortment of wedding gifts testified to the love and esteem of many friends and included a fine oak dining room set from the groom's parents. The other gifts included cut glass, china, silver and linen.

WONDERING WHERE BREAD SUPPLY IS COMING FROM

Three Manchester Bakeries Forced to Quit Business Because of the Great Increase in the Price of Flour

Manchester, Nov. 26.—Thousands of families in this city are wondering where their supply of bread is coming from following the announcement yesterday of three of the leading bakers that they were forced to suspend business owing to the prevailing prices demanded for flour. They announced that they were forced to suspend this branch of the business as the high prices had entirely wiped out the small margin of profit in the baking and selling of bread. These three concerns supplied about 90 per cent of the bread used in the city.

A dozen or more men who have been employed as drivers of bakery wagons, delivering bread daily to the retail trade, grocery stores, restaurants, lunch rooms and hotels have been thrown out of work. Manchester tonight is wondering where its bread will come from hereafter.

Housewives Busy
Housewives who have long since abandoned the practice of making their own bread began to dig out bread tins, and biscuit pans and new brides have raided local bookstores in an effort to procure cook books containing recipes for making home-made bread.

To the common victuallers, however, who feed a multitude of Manchester men and women daily, the situation is critical. Few of them have facilities for making their own bread, and pastry and bread is served with every order.

There is now selling in this city for $12.50 per barrel, a drop of 25 cents from the top notch price that prevailed earlier in the week. For this reason the wholesalers, who made thousands of loaves of bread daily, have found it impossible to continue without a loss, they state.

Forced to Quit
A short time ago the price of 5 cent loaves was raised to 6 cents, and the 10 cent loaves were reduced in size, but even this, the wholesalers claim, was not sufficient to overcome the increased cost of raw material. Rather than raise the price again or cut down the size of loaves any further they determined to merely quit the game.

The first raise to 6 cents created a storm of criticism that they were unable to satisfactorily explain, and they say that instead of facing a renewal of it they found it easier to go out of the wholesale bread business.

The three wholesalers who have gone out of the bread business are Samuel Lathum of Hanover street, W. A. Wagner of Elm street and Thomas L. Bean of Central street. The only bakers left are Cote Bros. of McGregorville, who said today that the monopoly they enjoy is far from a enviable one.

FOREST SERVICE TO AID IN LABOR CENSUS.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The census of the labor production of the country for 1916 will be undertaken by the Forest Service in co-operation with the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association. The information to be obtained by this work it is stated, will be of immense industry to the lumber industry, the forest service and other branches of the government.

It is estimated by the Forest Service that there are more than 30,000 sawmills in the country and it is planned to have the investigation reach every sawmill in operation. Each of these will be asked to make a detailed report of its production. Information is sought as to the total quantity of each kind of wood sawed, the number of logs and stumps used, industrial investments of the forest factured and the average mill value for each species. Printed schedules designed for use in different sections of the country will simplify the collection of the figures and make it easy for each mill man to send in a complete report. The work, it is stated, will be directed by the office of Service in Washington, but the western part of the country will be covered by the district offices of the Forest Service located in Missoula, Mont.; Denver, Colo.; Albuquerque, N. M.; Ogden, Utah; San Francisco, Cal.; and Portland, Oregon. The officers in charge of these districts, being nearer and thoroughly familiar with the scene of operations, are able to secure returns and compile reports in less time than if the work were handled from Washington.

It is intended that preliminary statements showing the production of the principal species such as yellow pine, Douglas fir, white pine and oak, and also the production of the leading states will be issued soon as the figures are available. The importance of these annual statistics, forest service officials say, is apparently not fully realized by all of the sawmill men, since past attempts to gather similar data show a large number of them fail to reply promptly, or neglect to make any report. A better response has been received from the lumber trade in late years, and the officials believe that with proper co-operation on the part of the lumbermen final figures showing the total production can be announced by June 1, 1917.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

(Arthur H. Manning, Dover, Mass.) It hangs as a master's painting, splashed with colors rare, tinted with lights and shadows playing over its mountain tides. And as the sun of dawn flashes against its granite peaks

In the scenic majesty of New Hampshire, the Lord of Creation speaks! It is stretched in resplendent glory from ribbed Vermont to the crested sea. It is hung there as a heavenly canvas for the eyes of man to see; it was painted and colored and scented when Time was young.

New Hampshire—it speaks with Nature's Tongue! It tells of verdant glory, it sings of rolling hills; it tells of placid lakes and wading, babbling hills; it paints a wondrous picture of glory to behold.

New Hampshire—it breathes with Nature's soul! It is planned with heavy oaks and stately pines, and ribboned by the mighty river that from its bosom winds; valleys grand, with its granite topped towers, its New Hampshire was fashioned by Nature's most loving hand!

From verdant footstools rugged peaks lift a crested crown, and from cloud belted heights look down. To beckon with loving hand and alluring smile. The sons of man to thoughts worth while.

It is stretched in resplendent glory from ribbed Vermont to the crested sea. It is hung there as a heavenly canvas for the eyes of man to see; it is peopled by rugged souls whose friendships do not fade. New Hampshire takes to her heart the stranger within the gate.

It hangs as a master's painting, splashed with colors rare, tinted with lights and shadows playing over its mountain tides. And as the sun of dawn flashes against its granite peaks, and as the sun of dawn flashes against its granite peaks, and as the sun of dawn flashes against its granite peaks.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

WE EAT TOO MUCH MEAT WHICH CLOGS KIDNEYS, THEN BACK HURTS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally. Else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known heart druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

U. S. MILLION INCOMES DOUBLE IN ONE YEAR

Washington, Nov. 26.—Multimillionaires with an income of $1,000,000 a year or more doubled in the first year of the European war, according to the annual report of W. H. Osborn, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, made public today.

In 1914 there were forty-four Americans who paid tax on incomes of $1,000,000 or more; in 1915 there were sixty; and the report issued today shows that one hundred and twenty Americans paid tax on incomes of this size in 1916.

In 1916 single men to the number of 47,583 paid income tax, while single women to the number of 22,915 also were rich enough to bring them within the taxable limits. The total number of income tax returns, including single and married persons, is reported as 374,652.

The most numerous class of persons with taxable incomes are those earning from $5,000 to $10,000 a year; the next most numerous class those earning from $3,000 to $4,000 a year, and the third those earning from $1,000 to $3,000 a year.

The total individual income tax for the year ended June 30, 1916, amounted to $67,948,551, an increase of $26,887,432 over 1915. The European war is continuing to amass fortunes for individuals so rapidly that the indications are the returns for 1917 will show at least 210 persons with incomes of $1,000,000 a year or more.

The report shows that corporation income tax collected for the year ended June 30, 1916, amounted to $59,972,720, an increase of $17,828,159 compared with the previous year. The war tax returned to the Government for the year ended June 30, 1916, the sum of $84,278,302. This was the first full year of operation of the tax. Receipts from ordinary taxes, such as those on liquor, tobacco and oleomargarine, amounted to $303,507,733, making aggregate collections on all accounts for the year of $512,728,257, an increase of $97,642,263 over the year before, and the largest internal revenue receipts ever collected in the history of the nation.

Commissioner Osborn estimates that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, taxes will be collected as follows: Ordinary, $315,000,000; taxation manufacturers and inheritance tax, $124,000,000; corporation income tax, $133,000,000; and individual income tax, $111,750,000, making a total estimated for the ensuing year of $703,550,000. At this rate of increase internal revenue collections will exceed a billion dollars a year in two or three years.

Commissioner Osborn's report shows that 1916 witnessed a large increase in the production and tax-paid withdrawal of distilled spirits, a substantial increase in manufactured tobacco and a phenomenal increase in cigarette production.

The report declares that the Harrison Anti-Narcotic law, designed to prevent the sale of habit-forming drugs, needs strengthening. It is recommended that oleomargarine be packed only in special boxes bearing stamps. The Commissioner renews his recommendation of last year that information in lieu of collection at the source be required in the administration of the Income Tax law.

The discovery of funds to the extent of $50,000,000 marked the work of the Internal Revenue Bureau during the year, the report says. The Bureau has gathered evidence in enough cases to have already assessed $22,500,000 of this unpaid tax against the offenders. The report states that eleven whiskey fraud conspirators and thirty-four oleomargarine fraud conspirators are in prison or have paid heavy fines. Two hundred and thirty-six tobacco factories have been seized on account of frauds.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Nov. 27.—"Use skimmed milk to reduce the high cost of living," is the advice of Professor James O. Jordan, inspector of milk of the Boston Board of Health. He said today, "At this time when the high cost of food materials must be seriously considered by householders, the employment of skimmed milk affords a means of appreciably reducing living expenses. This product may be obtained at nearly half the price of whole milk, and may be used in place of the latter as an addition to food materials with great advantage where price must be taken into account. Skimmed milk is a useful and economical food, but its value is not generally recognized. It should be used more extensively in place of whole milk in many culinary operations. For this purpose it cannot be too highly recommended. By its general employment human beings would need less of high priced foodstuffs for their nourishment than is necessary where skimmed milk forms no part of the diet. Skimmed milk furnishes protein at about half the outlay for which this essential can be purchased as milk. It is also a valuable source of carbohydrates and mineral matter. The deficiency of fat in

The historic Fort Independence on Castle Island will be used by the government as a storehouse for bandages, stretchers, medicines and other supplies belonging to the three hospital units recently established in Boston by the War Department, as part of the new preparedness activities. Formal notice has been filed by the government with Mayor Curley of Boston, informing him that ten rooms in the old fort will be taken for the purpose. Castle Island is government property which the city of Boston is allowed to use as a park.

"I say more money and get men teachers—that is what the public school of today needs to increase its efficiency," declares William McAndrew, a member of the Board of Superintendents of the New York public schools, addressing more than 600 New England school superintendents at the College of Liberal Arts here. "The women teachers in the public schools today are excellent; our boys, not through any fault in the teaching, but because the boys do not believe what the teachers tell them. Men teachers would give the boys a hand advice and their influence would tend to develop them with manly ideas instead of weak feminine habits. Of course the reason we cannot obtain men now is because our cities will not pay men's salaries and they enter business life instead."

Here are a few of Billy Sunday's snappy Sundayism culled from his Boston tabernacle sermons: "When you oppose revivals you spit in the face of Jesus Christ. There is only one explanation of our decadence—the devil in you. There are many pillars, pillows and pillow shams in the church. When some student of sociology says 'All have the divine spark, I'm from Missouri. The average prayer meeting is a big farce. Every old reprobate will pray to be kept out of hell. He tries to pull the wool over God's eyes. When should a society woman come to the tabernacle and stick her feet in the sawdust when there are bridge prizes still to be won? They call me sensational. I choose Christian sensation rather than potrid, pulpit stagnation any day. It is high time to bring against evil the heavy artillery stuck in theological mudholes."

YALE GAME BRINGS SUDDEN DEATH TO TWO HARVARD MEN

LIVINGSTON CUSHING, 79, FORMER FOOTBALL CAPTAIN, STRUCK EN WHILE HURRYING TO CATCH CAR FOR BOWL.—ERNEST LEWIS GAY, 97, DIES ON TRAIN.—NOTED BOOK COLLECTOR.

Boston, Nov. 26.—The Yale game brought death to two Harvard men, Livingston Cushing, 79, who dropped dead in New Haven while hurrying to catch a trolley car to the bowl, and Ernest Lewis Gay, 97, who died of heart trouble in the special car of the University Club just as the Boston train was crossing the state line. Medical Examiner McGrath, who was on board, took the body to the North Grove street morgue.

Mr. Gay was born in Boston about 41 years ago and entered Harvard in 1893. After graduating he spent one year in the law school. His interest in rare old books, of which he had already begun a collection, led him to give up the law, go abroad, and later become librarian of the University Club. This post, which he retained up to his death, permitted of frequent and lengthy excursions to Europe. He made special researches in Spain in 1913, and when the war broke out was hunting through the London book-shops.

Interested in "Beggars Opera" John Gay, who wrote "The Beggars Opera" in 1728, was his specialty. He had practically all the editions of this work, including a number not in the British Museum. The more valuable he kept in safe deposit vaults but he had more than 100 copies in his rooms at 317 Marlboro street, where he could see in compiling his long projected bibliography of "The Beggars Opera." Though he was better equipped for the task probably than anyone else, he allowed it to remain his dream for many years, always deferring publication until he should have completed his researches.

In connection with this work, he collected hundreds of ballad operas, the dramatic form which it introduced into England, and had standing orders with London and continental dealers to ship any copies he lacked. Like his brother, the late Frederick Lewis Gay, '78, he made many gifts to the Harvard library, enriching its department of ballad operas beyond any other collection in America, and giving it many copies which the British Museum would pay heavily for. A bachelor and a born antiquarian, he was never so happy as when browsing over his books with a pipe. He had arranged that on his death the "Beggars Opera" collection should join the others at Widener.

He was a brother of the late Harry H. Gay, whose wife romantically ac-

Death of Cushing
Livingston Cushing arrived at the New Haven station with friends and was seen to fall to the sidewalk. His friends hurried to him, picked him up, placed him in an automobile and hurried to a hospital, where it was stated death had occurred some minutes before.

Born in Boston about 60 years ago, he attended the public schools and was graduated from the Boston English high school. He then studied abroad for a time and in 1875 entered Harvard, graduating in 1879. During his four years at Harvard he played on the Harvard Varsity football team, the last two years being captain of the team.

He graduated from the Harvard Law school and the Boston University Law school in 1882 and the following year was admitted to the bar. Since that time he had practiced in Boston. He was a member of the Harvard Club of Boston, the Harvard Varsity Club and the Union Club. He leaves a widow.

5 CENT PIE AND CIGAR GONE, MEMPHIS WAITS.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 26.—The five cent cigar, the five cent pie and the five cent sandwich appear doomed to succumb to the high cost of living. Already it is impossible to get five cent pie and five cent sandwiches in most of the restaurants here, and some of the most popular five cent brands of cigars are disappearing from the shelves because the advance by manufacturers and wholesalers has been so great that there is no longer profit in handling them. While tobacco is selling at a higher price than in several years, the principal cause of the advance in cigars is due to increased wages to cigarmakers. Even the familiar stogies that sell "three for five" must soon sell "two for five." If prices advance to any extent.

ONLY 400 TAXICABS NOW LEFT IN BERLIN

Berlin, Nov. 26.—Of the 3,000 taxicabs which the German capital had when the war broke out only about 400 are left, and they are seldom seen on the streets, as only public officials in the discharge of their duty, physicians, diplomats and newspaper men are permitted to use them.

The auto cabs may also be used for funerals, but is strictly forbidden to drive to a concert, theatre, restaurant or any other place of amusement in any kind of a motor vehicle. Even the women of the wealthiest and most aristocratic circles have to ride in the street cars. About 50 per cent of the taxis are driven by female chauffeurs and the others by elderly men.

NOTED AVIATOR MAKES ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

Vienna, Nov. 26.—The famous Austrian aviator, Lieutenant Wanneck, who was captured by the Russians shortly before the Teutonic allies recaptured Przemyśl, recently made a daring attempt to escape from a prison camp in eastern Siberia. In a postal card received by his parents he wrote that he is under stricter surveillance than ever before, since he fled from the camp and tried to reach China. He wandered through the Siberian wilderness two weeks before the Russians recaptured him.

CUBAN POTASH STORY GIANT FRAUD ATTEMPT

Washington, Nov. 26.—That the recent announcement of the discovery of vast potash deposits in Cuba was a scheme to defraud American concerns of several million dollars, was the report today to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce by E. T. Montross, engineer employed by the Cuban Government.

CARRANZA MEN SHUN THEIR OWN MONEY

Laredo, Texas, Nov. 26.—According to an American just arrived from Mexico City, the Carranza garrison is financially embarrassed at this time and officials of the defunct government are resorting to all sorts of schemes to extract good money from the merchants and wealthy people of the republic. There is no dependence placed in the fluctuating and valueless Carranza currency even by the Carranza government officials themselves, and especially the military officials, and accordingly they are devising schemes for raising money that is good.

The American, who did not wish his name to be used for fear of offending the Mexicans said:

"The merchants, railroad men and mine employees of the country are rebelling against the use of the Carranza currency, and to overcome the opposition means must be devised to get together enough gold or silver to hold them down. A Carranza military officer told me the other day that he could not blame the people for not wanting to accept the currency, as he himself wanted none of the stuff."

"It had no stationary value he said and my men cannot purchase the necessities of life with it. There is a dearth of silver and gold for those who possess any have it secreted. Mexico is in a deplorable condition from a financial standpoint, and I fear that there will be many desertions from my command unless I can get the kind of money that is recognized as of market value. That is what is causing so many defections to the ranks of the Villistas, for our men are told that Villa has good money and when he pays his men they can make purchases."

"So you see," said the American, "the worthless Carranza money is in a great measure responsible for most of the dissension and internal disorders existing in Mexico and unless the first Chief Carranza quickly discovers some way of getting a loan and putting good money in circulation he is going to be confronted by a problem that he cannot handle."

Another American coming here from Saltillo says the necessities of life have gone to such a high figure that the same condition of starvation which existed among the lower classes about a year ago will now arise again and he worse than before. He says the Carranza soldiers are a half-hearted lot and remain in the army only because of fear that if they desert and they are caught they will be executed forthwith.

BILLY SUNDAY AFTER NEW YORK SINNERS.

New York, Nov. 26.—New York sinners are going to "hit the trail" hard next April or Billy Sunday will be greatly surprised and disappointed. Great preparations are under way for the revival here.

Sunday is directing the work here by mail and telegraph. The Sunday committee is showing a great activity. A vast tabernacle will arise at One Hundred and Sixty-Eighth street and Broadway, where the Yankees once had their baseball park.

Instead of insisting on the churches being closed here during the revival, as he has done in other places, Sunday will encourage them to remain open. He is going to have "trail hitters" enroll immediately with regular congregations.

Manhattan has been divided into eighteen districts, with a special corps of advance agents in each. Great attention will be paid to the "White Light" section.

TWO U-BOATS APPROACHING THE U. S. COAST

SAID TO HAVE TRAMP FLYING FLYING NORWEGIAN FLAG AS DECOY.—WIRELESS WARNINGS TO SHIPPING VETOED

New York, Nov. 26.—The report that two German submarines were nearing the American coast was confirmed today by an official of the British consulate general at 41 Whitehall street, who said he did not know how the news was made public, but admitted that it was true.

Agents of the allied steamship lines have been assured that the admiral in command at Halifax has taken every precaution to protect the shipping by patrolling the lanes with swift destroyers and light cruisers. Warnings have been sent out by wireless from the naval stations at Halifax and Bermuda to captains of incoming steamships cautioning them not to come near Nantucket and not to approach any strange vessels that sends out S. O. S. calls for assistance.

It is believed that the U-boats are accompanied by a tramp steamship under the Norwegian flag which carries a supply of fuel and acts as decoy to lure unsuspecting merchantmen to her assistance so that the submarine can destroy them.

The American naval officers in charge of the wireless stations along the Atlantic coast will not permit any warnings to be sent by the steamship agents to the captains of incoming vessels belonging to the allies, because it would be a violation of the neutrality laws.

DRINK HOT WATER IF YOU DESIRE A ROSY COMPLEXION

Says we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal when it burns leaves behind it a certain amount of incumbrance material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or palid complexions, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store and is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

FIRE DESTROYS DWELLING AT YORK CLIFFS

Home of Mrs. Mary Weare
Burned on Sunday Night.

The two-story dwelling owned and occupied by Mrs. Mary Weare at York Cliffs was totally destroyed by fire on Sunday night. The fire started from a defective chimney and was discovered about 8:15 on the night. It spread rapidly to the main house and in a short time the flames had gained such headway that the efforts of the fire department were useless. The failure of two chemical engines to work properly and the lack of water pressure prevented the department from saving the main building. Only part of the furniture was saved. The loss is not estimated. The building was covered by insurance.

THIS WILL BE A RELIEF TO PUBLIC

The Boston & Maine railroad has issued orders that after December 1, declaration of the value of baggage or property transported in baggage cars of the road will not be required. On June 1, 1916, the road in common with others in the East, issued orders requiring that the owner or shipper of such piece of baggage for interstate traffic should declare its value before checking it. This has caused much delay in the baggage rooms and the change will be welcomed by the traveling public and railroad employees alike.
